Brothers and Sisters;

We received the below noted information and web links from Transport Canada which are self explanatory. This project has been in the planning stage for quite a period of time but we are pleased with the results. Transport Canada has asked us to ask our members for comments relative to the content and structure of the website (as noted below). We would appreciate you also sending your comments to our office in Ottawa and address them to Mike Wheten, mwheten@teamstersrail.ca and cc Elaine Peddle, tcrcnlb@teamstersrail.ca. Please note that we will be forwarding your comments to Transport Canada in case you don't feel comfortable using the Transport Canada link. We want to continue our cooperation with Transport Canada on this project. Any and all comments are welcomed. Names, email addresses, and any other identifying information will be deleted before being forwarded to Transport Canada. If you do not wish us to forward your comments to Transport Canada please state so in your email and we will keep them on file here in our office.

This should be a very interesting website. Thanks in advance for your cooperation.

Yours in Solidarity,

Mike Wheten

Rail Safety Regulatory Affairs wishes to inform you that, as planned, a new webpage is now accessible to the public on Transport Canada's Internet site. From now on, users will be able to access a list of corporate and non-corporate offences (individuals) to provisions of the Railway Safety Act and related rules, regulations and standards, and fines that were imposed as a result. The site also includes extracts of Notices and Orders issued under s.31 of the RSA as of January 2009. The webpage also offers a link to the two applicable policies, which provide more detailed information on the matter.

Please share this email with your staff, asking that they take a peek at the site by clicking on the attached link below and let us know what they think. We would also appreciate it if mistakes would promptly be brought to our attention in order that we may make the necessary corrections.
